6th February, 2013: It's a busy week for Tiger Airways Australia as the airline today announces four new domestic routes between Melbourne and Sunshine Coast, Sydney and Cairns, Sydney and Alice Springs plus Melbourne and Alice Springs.

Special fares for Tiger's newest routes will be available on the Tiger Airways website (www.tigerairways.com) for a limited time from around 9:00 pm AEST today until midnight 12th February 2013 (or until sold out) and are valid for travel through April and May with thousands of fares available on each new route at the introductory launch fares listed below.

- Fly either way between Melbourne and Sunshine Coast from $49.95* (new route commences 27th March 2013).
- Fly either way between Sydney and Cairns from just $59.95* (new route commences 4th April 2013).
- Fly either way between Sydney and Alice Springs or Melbourne and Alice Springs from just $99.95* each way (both new routes commence from 9th April 2013).

Tiger Airways Australia Commercial Director, Carly Brear, says today's news is exciting for the consumer, local economies and the airline.

"We are confident that a lot of our current and future customers will be very happy that we are bringing Tiger's low fares to more of Australia," said Ms. Brear.

"Tiger's new services to Cairns and Sunshine Coast further increase our presence in Queensland, which is an ever popular state for our customers to visit and also provide additional connectivity for Queensland residents who have been extremely supportive of Tiger's services to date.

"I'm particularly thrilled to tell the people of Alice Springs that we have listened. We've been inundated with requests for Tiger's low cost flights to serve Central Australia, a community that currently lacks low cost options and critically is so heavily reliant on tourism.

“The people of Alice Springs will be the first to tell you that they won our recent online voting poll calling for Australian’s to vote where Tiger should fly to next and today we are announcing not one but two new routes into Alice from Australia’s two largest capital cities. It really is a case of ‘the people have spoken’ and Tiger has responded!”

This month Tiger Airways Australia will celebrate flying its 10 millionth customer since Australian operations began in November 2007.

In further growth related news for the airline, Tiger Airways is gearing up to commence flying its first NSW intrastate route between Sydney and Coffs Harbour which takes off from 15th February 2013 and will provide a welcome return service four times a week as well as an additional fifth Saturday service from March 2013 onwards.

“Not only does Tiger provide consistently great value fares and healthy competition to the market, we remain committed to customer satisfaction and will continue to respond to the needs of our customers,” said Ms. Brear. “The airline’s overall customer satisfaction has improved markedly (Roy Morgan domestic airline satisfaction independent research survey, July – September 2012) and our customers, quite rightly, are our number one priority at all times.”

Tiger Airways recently introduced a new call centre which commenced on 1st February 2013 in a further bid to ensure the highest levels of customer satisfaction.
